For the sake of a class of things perfectly similar in nature, and in their existence, the figures of expanded things, that quantity or magnitude of which is represented by the line, or lineal magnitude, in which they appear, might be...